

Yan Leyfman, MD

Resident (PGY2), Internal Medicine
Mount Sinai South Nassau

Service to their peers/Educational efforts or scholarly performance: "Dr. Leyfman has exhibited exemplary team leadership skills with the incoming first year residents, coordinating tasks, streamlining patient care, leading multidisciplinary discussions while managing to maintain the highest level of efficiency, positive patient outcomes and team morale. He has demonstrated the ability to manage a demanding caseload while juggling administrative tasks, resident teaching responsibilities and pursuing high level independent research pursuits as an active contributor to prestigious conferences both local and abroad." "He consistently demonstrates a strong work ethic, a genuine eagerness to learn, and a positive attitude throughout his residency. His contributions have undeniably enriched our program, making him a valuable asset. His ability to uplift those around him and set a stellar example for reaching one's potential is truly commendable."

Kirtivardhan Vashistha, MBBS

Fellow (PGY5), Cardiovascular Disease
Mount Sinai Beth Israel

Service to their peers: "Throughout our time collaborating in the CCU, Dr. Vashistha's remarkable dedication and expertise stood out prominently. Dr. Vashistha consistently displayed an exemplary commitment to patient care, marked by astute diagnoses and a compassionate bedside manner. Dr. Vashistha's leadership within our team fostered a culture of collaboration and growth, while his ability to remain composed under pressure provided a calming influence during critical moments. Dr. Vashistha is undeniably deserving of this recognition for the profound impact he made in our unit. Hands down he is the best fellow I worked with.!"
